I founded The Dave Wellman Cancer Trust in 1999, the year I lost my husband to lung cancer. Named after Dave, there is a Lab in the Cancer Sciences Centre, where major research is carried out and we have also purchased much needed equipment over that time. Recently, I was asked to be an Ambassador for the campaign to raise funds for the new Cancer Immunology Centre in Southampton, due for completion by 2017. On occasion I speak with the amazing scientists about the human and warm side of life as the family perspective, thus trying to engage people to understand how important working with the immune system is to combat this terrible disease. Although the majority of the money we raise goes into research locally, we continue supporting families and individuals in the fight against cancer.”
